

PARTIES SET OUT THEIR PRIORITIES

● THE Conservative Party admits it is "bullish" about its chances of gaining some representation on Haringey Council.

The local authority make-up is currently dominated by Labour and the Liberal Democrats. The Tories have not held a seat since 2009, when Alan Dobbie defected from the Labour Party, and they have not won a seat in Haringey since 1998.

Tottenham Conservatives chairman Justin Hinchcliffe, below, said: "Tottenham is not natural territory for us, we are putting up a really good show, we have distributed 80,00 leaflets and knocked on 3,000 doors. We are not going to take control of the borough, the odds are practically the same as me winning the Lottery – it's not going to happen – if the Lib Dems tell you they're going to win, it's not going to happen.

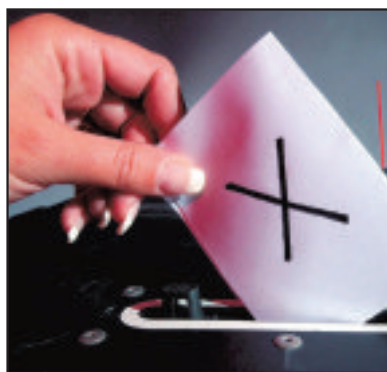

"But it's important we have Tory councillors on the council to provide an opposition to keep Labour honest."

The party is putting forward a candidate for every seat in the borough and has pledged to build more schools, offer 30 minutes' free parking across the borough, invest in high streets and spend £1million in the first year on roads, pavements, parks, planting more trees and employing community wardens.

The Tory manifesto vows to reduce antisocial behaviour by "enforcing a responsible attitude to issuing licences to bars, clubs and restaurants".

Mr Hinchcliffe, who is standing in the Seven Sisters ward, says the 27 Conservative candidates in the Tottenham parliamentary constituency "have chosen to make their home in Haringey".

He added: "I am extremely proud that we have a woman standing in every ward and our candidates are drawn from the diverse communities which make up Tottenham – Christian, Muslim, Jewish and secular. Six are Polish, three Turkish, and others are from France, Italy, Greece, Hungary, Israel, Ghana and Uganda. Five candidates are gay and one is blind."

● ONE of the United Kingdom Independence Party's eight candidates in Haringey believes that he has a "better than outside chance" of being elected.

Peter Nichols is standing in the traditional Labour stronghold of St Ann's on May 22.

And while the 53-year-old says he is disadvantaged by "not having the party machinery" behind him, he feels he has a chance of being elected as one of the ward's three councillors.

The retired banker-turned linguist, left, said: "As I have been leafleting and talking to people, I have been getting a very positive response.

"Haringey is a very immigrant-heavy area, so you would think that people wouldn't be responsive to UKIP, but I would say that 60 to 70 per cent of people are responsive to our position."

That, says Mr Nichols, is "controlling the level of immigration into the UK and withdrawing from the European Union". He said: "UKIP is not anti-immigration – we are for controlled immigration. But at the moment there are just open borders within the EU.

"At the moment, if people want to make an appointment with their GP or need to go to A&E, they find services are just overwhelmed.

"We're not against people from Romania and Bulgaria coming here if they are going to work and make a contribution, if they have medical insurance and private accommodation, so they are not having to go to the council for somewhere to live."

Mr Nichols, who returned to Tottenham from Africa in 2006, having spent a number of years working abroad, said that he had a number of local priorities, too.

These include tackling litter and fly-tipping, protecting St Ann's Hospital, in St Ann's Road, and improving parks and other recreational areas.

He added: "Haringey has for far too long been written off as a hopelessly deprived inner-city borough by Labour, who have been repeatedly re-elected. I will campaign tirelessly to improve the quality of life of all residents."

● THE Trade Unionists and Socialists Against Cuts are hoping to make waves in traditionally left-leaning Haringey, fielding 20 candidates.

The coalition was formed four years ago and its size and momentum have increased gradually its members fight against cuts to jobs, services and pay and battle for workers' rights.

While the 20 hopefuls on May 22 comprise a number of different groups, including anti-cuts campaigners, trade unionists and young people, they have all agreed to sign up for a common election manifesto.

This includes opposing all cuts to council jobs, services, pay and conditions, fighting the bedroom tax, opposing council tax rises, campaigning for the introduction of a living wage, making sure councils set budgets that meet communities' needs and supporting workers' struggles against cuts and privatisation.

Beyond that, however, the aspiring councillors are free to campaign on their own platforms.

Haringey TUSC co-ordinator Oktay Sahbaz, left, is one of three candidates standing against council leader Claire Kober in Seven Sisters ward, along with Derek Bishop and Jack Jeffery.

Mr Sahbaz, who is head of computing at a school in Hackney, said: "We stand as an alternative to the three-party cuts consensus that is destroying jobs, homes and public services across the country.

"Over the past four years Haringey has lost many jobs and youth services, day care centres, nurseries and parks have all been cut.

"These were services and jobs that people have struggled for and gained through standing together and working together.

"Council leaders have implemented these cuts despite many people opposing them.

"We believe that if Labour is not willing to stand up for working-class people, we must do it for ourselves."

Secondary will train top student teachers

THE executive head of a Wood Green school says he is delighted to be able to offer student teachers the chance to reach the "high standards" already offered at his school.

St Thomas More Catholic School, in Glendale Avenue, has been selected by the National College for Teaching and Leadership to become a national teaching school. It means the school will take a leading role in recruiting and training new teachers.

The scheme – introduced in 2011 – is part of a focus on "school-centred" training, with aspiring teachers being encouraged to learn on the job with the help of trained mentors.

Martin Tissot, executive headteacher of St Thomas More, said: "Given the strength of our teaching staff and the high-quality support offered by our non-teaching staff, I am delighted that we have the opportunity to help others to achieve these high standards."

Charlie Taylor, NCTL's chief executive, added: "St Thomas More should be very proud of its teaching school status. It recognises the school's outstanding performance and its track record of raising standards through supporting other schools."

Arrested man bailed

POLICE are yet to press any charges over the death of Franciszek Malinkowski, whose body was found in South Tottenham on April 27.

The 51-year-old Polish construction worker, from Finsbury Park, was found dead on scrubland between the railway line and Ermine Road by officers who had been called to the scene.

An 11th man arrested on May 4 on suspicion of Mr Malinkowski's murder has been released on bail. Nine others have also been bailed and another has been released without charge.

MP and group seeking answers on 'forgotten thalidomide' drug

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN MP is throwing his weight behind a new parliamentary group convened specifically to unearth answers on a pregnancy testing drug dubbed "the forgotten thalidomide".

Nick de Bois, the Conservative MP for Enfield North, will be sitting alongside MPs from across the political divide today when the first meeting of the all party parliamentary group on pregnancy testing drug Primodos takes place in the House of Commons.

The drug was given to women as a means of testing for pregnancy in the 1960s and early 1970s before more sophisticated urine tests were developed.

The drug contained a very high dose of hormones that would later be used in the morning after pill.

Women were told that if they were pregnant the high doses of progesterone would be absorbed into the body and if they were not, the hormone would trigger menstruation.

As featured previously in the Advertiser, Enfield mother Chris Gooch, 65, of Carnarvon Avenue, believes the drug was responsible for leaving her daughter Emma with debilitating defects at birth including fingers and toes that were only partly developed.

In a bid to unearth answers on how much was known about possible side effects of the drug when it was prescribed to women such as Chris, Mr de Bois will join with his colleagues to embark on a process of questioning drug company officials and re-examining evidence.

"Parliament has ducked this issue for 30 years," he told the Advertiser. "I am delighted that we have a cross-party group of MPs who are going to press this issue and are going to get some answers."

"It leads me to believe for the first time we have the momentum to get answers."

Chris added: "It is the first time I think that a group of MPs are collectively behind the campaign. It feels as though a lot of rubbish was buried a long time ago and now it is coming to the surface."

A spokeswoman from Bayer, which took over Schering, the company that made the pills, told the Advertiser: "Bayer denies that Primodos was responsible for causing any deformities in children."

"Since the discontinuation of legal action in England in 1982, no new scientific knowledge has been produced which would call into question the validity of the previous assessment of there being no link between use of Primodos and the occurrence of congenital abnormalities."

Eco-warriors face eviction from development site

ECO-WARRIORS occupying the site of a controversial housing development are facing eviction by a court order later this week.

The band of activists embarked on a peaceful occupation of the site of the former Middlesex University campus in Cat Hill, Cockfosters, last month.

The owners of the site L&Q housing are seeking a court order tomorrow to evict the protesters from the site at a hearing in Barnet County Court, in Regents Park Road, Finchley.

However, Danny G, one of the protest camp's activists, has said that the protesters will be submitting their own evidence to the court before the hearing in a bid to "turn the tables on the developers".

Speaking before delivering documents and filmed footage to the court for the judge to consider before the hearing, he said: "We want to expose what is happening inside the site. Things are happening in darkness and we want to expose that to the light."

"We are presenting our own evidence to the judge because we want him to see that this group is not just a couple of idiots having a nice picnic. We are serious."

According to Danny, many of the protesters on the site are veterans of the Occupy movement.

"We want to work with the local residents to empower them in their campaign of opposition against the developers," he added.

However, L&Q insists that it is in fact the protesters who are jeopardising the delicate ecosystem of the site. A spokesman said: "We remain concerned that protesters continue to camp on an active construction site, on which we are creating well-designed homes that match the character of the local area."

"As well as raising obvious health and safety issues, this camp site risks damaging Cat Hill's natural habitats for protected wildlife."

"We have therefore commenced legal action to address this situation, and await the court's decision with interest."

Aftermath: The scene of the fire in High Street, Ponders End, on Wednesday last week

Firemen turn midwives as baby is born during blaze

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A BABY boy was delivered by two firefighters tackling a blaze in Ponders End last week.

Antoni Zimmnicki weighed in at 9lb 2oz after being brought into the world by the two firemen, who had been called to the blaze in High Street on Wednesday morning.

Mum Ewelina Zimmnicka and dad Jaroslav Zimmnicki, from Ponders End, were on their way to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, when they got stuck in traffic because of the fire that destroyed a restaurant, an estate agent's premises and a number of flats.

As Mrs Zimmnicka's contractions got more rapid, her husband broke through the cordon to ask the crews for help.

Ross McLaren, 33, and colleague Richie Hall instantly turned midwives and delivered the boy, while fellow firefighters called an ambulance.

Mrs Zimmnicka said: "When I went into labour at home, I thought I had a lot of time as my first baby's labour had taken a long time. But then the contractions started coming quicker and I told my husband, 'We had better go'."

"We set off in the car but we got stuck in traffic almost straightaway because of the fire. Both ends of the road were sealed off and there were fire engines all around us."

"My husband rushed out of the car and told police we needed help. The fire brigade put a barrier around us and helped me and just as the baby was born the ambulance crew arrived in time to cut the cord."

Mr McLaren added: "The husband was driving and was in a bit of a panic. I could see that the lady in the back seat was in the middle of giving birth and when I looked I could see the baby's head."

"We began to give the mum oxygen and to try and reassure her. While Richie carried on doing that, I kept telling the lady to push."

"Once he was born we rubbed him down to get his circulation going and when he started crying I knew it was going to be alright. We then kept mum and baby warm until the London Ambulance Service arrived to take them to hospital."

Mr McLaren, who has been a fireman for 15 years, said it had been one of the more unusual days at work, adding that he had an idea of what to do because his wife is an "avid viewer of One Born Every Minute".

"It has definitely been one of the highlights of my career and it's not something I ever expected that I would do in my life," he said.

"Someone said to me the other day that as firefighters we usually enter people's lives at their worst moments, so being there at such a joyful occasion makes a nice change."

Mr Zimmnicka added: "I was so surprised how quickly the baby arrived. He was healthy and he cried almost straightaway."

"The firemen were excellent. I can't thank them and the ambulance crew enough."

Businesses and flats are gutted

MORE than 20 people escaped from the major fire in Ponders End in the early hours of Wednesday morning last week.

The blaze gutted Vadi restaurant, in High Street, and neighbouring Lombard Estates, as well as four flats above.

The fire brigade was called just before 1.30am and residents had already fled before crews arrived.

More than 70 firefighters and ten fire engines from Enfield, Edmonton, Bethnal Green, Chingford, Soho, Tottenham, Walthamstow and Woodford tackled the blaze, which was brought under control just after 8am. Fire crews remained at the scene throughout the morning to dampen down.

Station manager Mark Blomfield, who was at the scene, said: "Our firefighters worked extremely hard in very challenging conditions to contain what was a very large blaze."

Enfield Council said 20 people, including five children, had to be rehoused as a result of the fire.

Some of the families were given accommodation in a hotel by the authority, while others were able to stay with friends and family.

A council spokesman added: "We are working with everyone affected to ensure they get the appropriate help to find alternative accommodation where required."

The cause of the blaze is still being investigated.

Dismay as plan to create extra primary school places is ditched

RESIDENTS have voiced their "disappointment" after the council backed out of a promise to create 60 new primary school places for children living in the south-west of the borough.

As reported in the Advertiser in February, after extensive lobbying by parental campaign group South West Enfield Action Team, the council pledged to create the 60 places for children starting school in September this year.

However, it has emerged this week that the authority has no definite plans to establish those places after they were able to find primary places for all children in the borough who applied before the deadline for applications.

Residents of Palmers Green and Southgate are furious that the council has reneged on its promise as many parents with children starting school in September missed out on their preferred choice and are now facing long commutes across the borough to their second or even third choice school.

Chairman of Fox Lane and District Residents' Association Andy Barker, of Amberley Road, Palmers Green, said that residents in his area felt let down by the council, who had promised so much.

"The council admitted there was a problem with a lack of primary school places in this area and I think the fact they no longer seem to be committed to these new school places is quite disappointing," he said.

"There were two or three meetings with the primary expansion team where we discussed a possible school expansion on the Grovelands site, but all those proposals and suggestions seem to have finished."

However, an Enfield Council spokesman said that no option had been ruled out.

Let down: Residents' leader Andy Barker

He added: "The situation is still being closely monitored as part of the ongoing admissions process and we still have contingency options to provide additional places should we need them."

"The potential need for additional places in the south-west of the borough was identified in a previously published council report in June 2013 which listed possible options. These options are still being pursued."

Tin Tabernacle: Shaftesbury Hall

Squatters given their marching orders

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

SQUATTERS have been kicked out of a distinctive landmark building in the south of the borough, freeing the way for a charity to develop the site into a community hub.

The north London branch of the Samaritans have been battling to remove a group of squatters from Shaftesbury Hall, in Herbert Road, beside Bowes Road train station, since March after gaining planning permission from Enfield Council to embark on a refurbishment project worth hundreds of thousands of pounds.

The rundown hall, which has been dubbed the Tin Tabernacle by locals due to its unusual corrugated iron walls and steeply pitched roof, was originally built for railway workers in 1848 when manual labourers were constructing the original railway tracks that still run beside the building.

The arrival of the squatters into the distinctive building scuppered the charity's plans to redevelop the site and transform it into a community centre for the charity and residents.

However, since serving a High Court order on the squatters, the charity is now free to focus on raising the £200,000 needed to revamp the former church. Nigel Thorne of North London Samaritans said: "Following the serving of a High Court order, the Tin Tabernacle is no longer occupied."

"The building is secured and North London Samaritans are currently beginning the process of raising £200,000 needed to refurbish the hall."

"It will then become a community space for local groups and residents, as well as being used for training activities for the Samaritans."

"Revenue from the hiring of the building will be used to support the activities of North London Samaritans."

A FORMER mayor is leading a campaign to draw attention to the plight of more than 200 schoolgirls kidnapped by a militia group in Nigeria as they prepared to sit exams.

Kate Anolue, a trained lawyer who was mayor of Enfield in 2013-14, is calling on people across the borough to join her and others from the Nigerian ex-patriot community in Enfield as they march from St Edmund's Church, in Croyland Road, Edmonton, to Edmonton Green in protest against the capture and imprisonment of more than 200 girls by militant Islamist group Boko Haram.

Mrs Anolue is a ward councillor for Upper Edmonton and has been made a chieftain in her home town of Nanka in Anambra state, Nigeria, in recognition of her academic and professional successes.

She will be meeting other Nigerian ex-pats on Saturday, May 24, to protest against worldwide inequality in education.

"Regardless of whether the girls have been released back to their families by then, we will be protesting," she told the Advertiser. "We want education for all. We want no more kidnapping or intimidation of girls who just want to learn."

"What happened to those girls makes my heart bleed. Growing up I was very lucky that my father believed in gender equality."

"I was one of seven children and when a friend of my father asked, 'Why are you educating a girl', his answer was that an educated woman is useful. She is useful to her community, to her husband and if she has children, she will be useful to them. I feel very sad about what is happening in northern Nigeria. If we want to properly tackle global poverty and inequality, we have to educate both boys and girls."

Mrs Anolue is appealing for anyone who feels passionately about the issue to join the protesters at 12.45pm on May 24.

Closing down: The Sir Thomas Lipton Memorial Home in Southgate

Costs force charity to close down care home

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CARE home in Southgate is to be closed after the charity that runs it deemed it too costly to maintain.

The Sir Thomas Lipton Memorial Home, in Chase Side, will be shut later this summer, the board of trustees of Friends of the Elderly, the charity responsible for running the home, announced on Monday.

It is home to 20 elderly residents and the charity said that the large Victorian property, which is surrounded by five acres of grounds, had been running at a loss for a number of years largely due to the costs of maintaining it to the standards required of a modern residential home.

The decision had been made back in March as part of the charity's annual financial review. Chris Poole, director of operations of Friends of the Elderly, said: "This has been a difficult decision for us. The costs associated with upgrading the home make it impossible for us to operate it effectively and bring it up to the efficient standards of larger, more modern homes. It is no longer fit for purpose."

"Over the next few weeks we will be liaising with residents and their families to address any concerns and to come to understand their views. We will also be working closely with local adult social care teams to ensure residents are supported in a careful and dignified way and the home will not be closed until the final resident is re-housed appropriately."

The house was built 1808 and was run previously as a care home by the Sir Thomas Lipton Hostel Memorial Trust. The Friends of the Elderly took over eight years ago.

The charity's nearest other homes are in Luton, Staines and Woking and a spokeswoman said it would help residents who wanted to find a new home with an alternative organisation.

Mr Poole added: "The needs and well-being of all existing residents are paramount. We believe there are more modern and user-friendly facilities in the area which better serve their needs. The intention is to close the home in phases to minimise disruption to residents while they are re-housed."

It is anticipated that all residents will have been moved out by the end of August. The charity has not yet decided whether it will put the property up for sale.

Borough Commander

It has been an interesting few months, and the topic of most interest is public confidence in policing.

There have been significant high-profile issues including the Ellison review into the Stephen Lawrence investigation, "Plebgate" and the revelation that Scotland Yard officers have disclosed data protection information 300 times over the past five years.

Some may be asking what the Met is doing and what sort of service are we providing to the people of London. I have been a police officer for 25 years and I agree that at times our actions have been shameful.

But the reality is that never have I seen a more dedicated, focused and professional police service committed to serving local communities.

I want to draw your focus to the work we are doing in Enfield – we're committed to providing a quality response.

This includes officers fighting to save the life of a woman stabbed and run over by her husband and some formally commended for saving the life of a man who had been involved in a traffic accident.

Operation Hammerhead was set up to address crime and antisocial behaviour in Edmonton Green while Operation Spyder is a team of officers focused on reducing the vehicle crime which blights our borough.

The high-profile cases in the press frustrate the efforts of local officers who are at times heroic, determined and committed to making Enfield a better place to live, work and visit.

We await outcomes of investigations and reviews, but here in Enfield we will be getting on with serving the community. There's really no time to waste.

Who will be first past the post?

Launching the manifesto:
Sadiq Khan and Doug Taylor

Labour

SHADOW Minister for London Sadiq Khan joined Labour colleagues for the launch of the party manifesto ahead of next week's council elections.

Mr Khan, the MP for Tooting, teamed up with Labour leader Doug Taylor, former cabinet member for finance and property Andrew Stafford and Edmonton MP Andy Love at a panel before more than 50 members at the Enfield North constituency party headquarters at Celbic Hall, in Lancaster Road, Enfield.

Mr Stafford said the Labour administration, which had taken over in 2010 after eight years of Tory rule, "deserved another four years".

Mr Taylor continued: "The defining choice at a local level is between a Labour council which acts and a Tory council which fails to act. In the eight years of Conservative administration that preceded us, we saw a failure to take opportunities, but we will act."

He went on to say that the issues the borough was facing included rapid population growth and an increase in the use of cars and pollution. He vowed that a new Labour council would increase cycling opportunities and open a new civic amenity site in the east of the borough to recycle more household waste.

The manifesto describes Enfield as "the place to do business" and the party vows to bring new businesses into the borough, create more apprenticeships and bring about 3,000 new jobs at the Meridian Water development in Edmonton.

"We will encourage all employers in the borough to pay the living wage," Mr Taylor added. "We need jobs with decent pay for a decent day's work."

The manifesto promises include the construction of 10,000 new homes and improving the quality of privately rented homes through a landlord licensing scheme, coming into force next year, as well as bringing more derelict homes back into use.

Conservative

REDUCING spending, council tax and the number of councillors are the main election pledges of Enfield Conservatives.

Eschewing a launch event with the party faithful, leading Tories presented their manifesto solely to the press at the Enfield North Conservative Association, in Baker Street, Enfield.

The manifesto sets out a radical plan to cut the number of councillors by a third, from 63 to 42.

"If we are saying to staff that they should do more with less, it's only proper to ask ourselves if we need so many councillors," said Michael Lavender, the group's leader.

"Within the council's cabinet system, how much do backbenchers actually do? We really don't need this many councillors."

Terry Neville, who has acted as shadow cabinet member for finance and property over the past four years, did not want to commit to how much he would like to cut council tax.

He said: "We have been speaking to senior officers about the £14million in cuts that need to be delivered next year. A one per cent cut in council tax would cost £1m, which is very much possible."

The Tories pledged to retain and reform the popular Residents' Priority Fund, under which residents can apply for funding for community projects.

On housing, Mr Lavender said: "It makes sense for us to build housing. Meridian Water is an important development. A part of the homes should be socially rented for the communities of Enfield, we agree with Labour on that."

Mr Neville added: "The real difference between us is that we manage money better."

About the party's prospects, the leader said: "I would not go as far as to say it's in the bag, but we stand a very good chance of winning."

Tory leader: Michael Lavender

Standing in Winchmore Hill:
Alison Phillips, Jean
Robertson-Molloy and Bill Linton

Green

FOR the first time the Green Party in Enfield is putting up candidates in every ward in the borough.

The Greens are pouring the majority of their energy into scooping a win in the currently Conservative-held Winchmore Hill ward.

The three ward candidates, Alison Phillips, Jean Robertson-Molloy and Bill Linton, are campaigning on a ticket of protecting the "character of Winchmore Hill".

They say they want to make the area a fairer place to live and pledge to campaign to boost affordable housing in a bid to stop young people being priced out. In keeping with their environmental credentials, they also want to transform the ward into a healthier place to live by promoting walking and cycling to boost health and cut pollution in the borough.

Speaking to the Advertiser, Ms Phillips explained that after the party's success in securing a 20mph speed limit along Hoppers Road they are hopeful that the 700 signatures secured for the campaign can be translated into winning votes.

The party supports the council's overhaul of infrastructure to make cycling easier and safer, but she added a cautionary note: "It has to be implemented in the right way. Nobody, not us, not Enfield Council, wants to see empty shops.

"We do not think that increasing pedestrian and bike access means less trade. I understand fears, but we think that if this is implemented well fewer cars will not mean a drop in trade. There are studies from different parts of the UK that show that if you make town centres more attractive places it becomes more of a destination area which in fact boosts local businesses."

Insisting that her party will work hard for residents, she added: "We are not the Labour Party or the Tories – we are good at listening to what people have to say and will work hard for them on their behalf."

UKIP resignation
too late for ballot

A UKIP candidate who quit the party is still going to appear on ballot papers on May 22 because his withdrawal from the election race came too late.

William Henwood, who was standing in Enfield Town ward, left the party after it was revealed that he said black comedian Lenny Henry should "emigrate to a black country" on the micro blogging site Twitter.

An Enfield Council spokesman explained that Mr Henwood could still receive votes and be elected because he had not pulled out until after the cut-off point at 4pm on April 24.

Jailed for attack on pensioner

A MAN has been jailed for kicking and punching a pensioner while he was waiting at a bus stop.

Michael Douglas, 34, of Swaythling Close, Upper Edmonton, admitted attacking the 67-year-old in High Road, Tottenham, at 3.30am on March 22.

The victim, who was on his way home from a family gathering, was knocked to the ground and hit several times on the head.

CCTV operators caught the attack on their cameras and alerted the police and the London Ambulance Service.

The pensioner was taken to a north London hospital with facial and head injuries and has since been discharged.

Douglas pleaded guilty to causing actual bodily harm and was sentenced to 21 months behind bars at Wood Green Crown Court on April 22.

Detective Constable Mike Scullion said: "This was a sickening and completely unprovoked assault on a gentleman who had no chance of defending himself. The assault only came to an end when a good Samaritan intervened."

"Douglas, who has shown no remorse for his actions and gave no explanation for it, was captured on CCTV running away from the scene and laughing. His sentence is welcomed."

Suicide wife pact given suspended prison sentence for manslaughter

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN who slashed the wrists of her husband in a failed suicide pact has been given a suspended jail sentence.

Ann Pollen, 47, of Hawthorne Road, Edmonton, who had been charged with murder, pleaded guilty to manslaughter at the Old Bailey last week and was jailed for 18 months, suspended for two years.

Paramedics had discovered her at home on September 3, 2012, lying in blood-soaked sheets with her husband Leonard, 58, slumped on the floor, just days after he had been arrested on suspicion of rape.

Mr Pollen's brother had sounded the alarm after receiving a letter that morning from Leonard with "last will and testament" written on it.

Prosecuting counsel David Jeremy QC said that Mrs Pollen had told the first paramedics and police on the scene that she had and her husband had slashed each other's wrists, taken tablets and drunk alcohol.

That suicide attempt failed. They tried again the next day when they slashed each other's wrists with a Stanley knife, drank more alcohol and swallowed more pills. Mrs Pollen woke later, discovered her husband had died and tried to take her life for a third time.

Passing sentence, Judge Peter Rook QC said: "It follows, as a general rule, the survivor of the suicide pact should face an immediate custodial sentence."

"You know that this terrible pact led to your husband's untimely death. His family have been left devastated."

However, the judge added, it had been a "wholly exceptional case" and there were "many mitigating factors".

"Your motivation was a deep fear of being on your own without Mr Pollen, who was the only person on whom you felt you could rely," he said.

Referring to three separate expert reports into the defendant's mental state, the judge said: "It seems to me that there is no difference between their opinions."

"You are a highly suggestible person. You would have been very vulnerable to persuasion. You suffer from claustrophobia, which would make prison particularly difficult for you. It would therefore be appropriate to suspend sentence."

Hikers hitch up their night clothes for walk in the dark

By Jack Wilkinson
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of pyjama-clad fundraisers are preparing for the borough's fourth annual Night Hike for Cancer Sufferers, which will take place on June 27.

Enfield Council, the Nightingale Cancer Support Centre and the Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust have extended an invitation to all men, women and children over the age of 14 to take part in what is set to be a memorable night.

The 15-kilometre hike will be raising money for those battling cancer throughout the borough and Joan Kearns, director of services and development at the Nightingale Cancer Support Centre, in Lancaster Road, Enfield, said: "People do charity events to put something back into the community, and this is the best way to do that.

"Of course, raising money for cancer sufferers is a serious matter, but fundraising, at its core, is about having fun."

Last year's hike raised £19,575 and Ms Kearns is hoping to replicate the amazing atmosphere and camaraderie that was on show then.

"It's part of the feel-good factor as well," she added. "Everyone comes away feeling like they have done a really great and positive thing. Everybody smiled all the way through last year's event."

Last year saw more than 700 men and women dressed in flashing bunny ears and pyjamas walk through the streets of Enfield, Winchmore Hill, Oakwood, Southgate and Palmers Green.

The route this year is unchanged, with the hike starting and finishing at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield Town. Pre-hike cakes and biscuits will be on offer to walkers, along with refreshments handed out by residents who set up stations in their garden along the route.

The Asda supermarket, in Chase

Side, Southgate, and the Intimate Theatre, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, will again be providing walkers with the opportunity to take a break along the route.

Those interested in the hike are advised to pre-register as spaces are limited. You can register your interest in the Enfield Night Hike 2014 by calling 020 8379 3762. Alternatively, you can visit www.nightingalesupport.org.uk

Having fun: Last year's event raised nearly £20,000

Hunt for trio after teens are robbed at knifepoint

POLICE are appealing for information after three teenagers were robbed at knifepoint in broad daylight.

The 17-year-old and two 18-year-olds were walking through Pymmes Park, in Victoria Road, Edmonton, at about 4pm on April 24 when they were set on by a trio of teens, one of whom brandished a stick at them.

The attackers demanded the mobiles of the three friends – and when they refused to hand them over, one of the robbers pulled out a knife.

A fight broke out between the knife-wielding attacker and one of the victims, who was stabbed in the arm and thigh.

While the fight was going on, the two other attackers robbed the victim's friends of their mobile phones. All three then ran off towards Silver Street train station.

The victim was taken to a north London hospital for treatment for two stab wounds.

All three suspects are described as black and aged between 16 and 17.

The knife-wielding attacker is about 5ft 9ins tall and of skinny build and was wearing a blue hooded top and a woolly hat. He spoke with a London accent.

Another attacker is of slim build and was wearing dark clothing, including a black hooded top with gold detailing on the front of it.

The third attacker is also described as being of slim build and was also wearing dark clothing.

Police are asking anyone who witnessed the incident or who has information to contact Detective Constable Keith Kimberly at Enfield CID on 020 8345 4469, quoting reference 5209001.

Alternatively, anonymous calls can be made to Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

On the podium: Casey Bex with Lizzie Armitstead, watched by her mum Nikki

Casey has a wheely great day handing out cycle race prize

A SIX-YEAR-OLD who has survived leukaemia played a leading role in a top-class cycling race.

Casey Bex presented the prize jersey to the fastest British rider on stage four of the inaugural Friends Life Women's Tour, from Cheshunt to Welwyn Garden City, on Saturday.

The schoolgirl, from Cheshunt, handed the jersey to Lizzie Armitstead, who won silver in the London 2012 Olympics road race, on behalf of blood cancer charity Leukaemia & Lymphoma Research.

Casey's mum Nikki described the experience as fantastic. "It was absolutely amazing being on the podium," she said. "I was honoured to get up there with Casey and it was a fantastic day all round for our whole family."

The charity, which was the official partner for the first women's stage race to be held in the UK, has particular significance for Casey and her family after she was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukaemia in January 2010.

Alarm bells rang for her parents when they discovered unexplained bruising on Casey's back when she was just two years old.

They immediately took her to the family doctor, who referred her to Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge.

Casey was diagnosed with the disease and underwent months of gruelling chemotherapy at Great Ormond Street Hospital in London. She completed the treatment in March 2012.

Casey's father Bradley added: "It's unbelievable to look at her now, compared with a couple of years ago when she was diagnosed."

"We soon learnt that because of the fantastic research into blood cancers many people like Casey are beating the disease and going on to live their lives to the full."

Anyone who is inspired by The Women's Tour can register for a range of cycling events run by Leukaemia & Lymphoma Research, including the London to Paris bike ride (June 19-23), the London Bikeathon (August 31) and the Birmingham Bikeathon (September 21).

Student Marcel on the ball for Texan university

A STUDENT basketball player has landed a scholarship at a university in the United States after sending over video footage of himself in training.

Marcel Lee, who is about to finish a BTEC level 3 in sport at Barnet and Southgate College, has fulfilled a dream he has had since primary school after being granted the scholarship to Hardin-Simmons University, in Abilene, Texas.

The 19-year-old has completed levels 1 to 3 of his sports BTEC and is due to finish his course at the college, in High Street, Southgate, this summer.

He was selected for the scholarship after sending videos of himself playing basketball to five different American universities, to which Hardin-Simmons responded with interest.

"I got the idea that it would be possible for me to study and play basketball in America last summer," he said. "My coach Rob Weaver helped me and we started making video recordings of my training sessions."

"When I got offered the scholarship, I was a little bit surprised – but I have worked so hard and I knew I was good enough. I am looking forward to going. It's going to be great."

Off to America: Marcel Lee

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fundraiser's special award for supporting cancer charity

By Jack Wilkinson

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A CANCER survivor has received an award in recognition of his tireless charity work while overcoming the disease.

Stephen Browne, of Lattymer Road, Edmonton, was diagnosed with bowel cancer in March 2012, aged 45.

He has been given the national achievement award on behalf of Beating Bowel Cancer for his dedication to raising awareness of the disease and for his support of the charity.

Speaking about his award, the 47-year-old said: "I was surprised and honoured. It reminds me of how far I have come, but also that there are so many people out there campaigning for cancer awareness."

He was presented with the award by the Lord Mayor of London Fiona Woolf at the charity's annual Patient Day at the Royal College of Surgeons in London.

The day is dedicated to patients and their families who come together to hear the latest developments in bowel cancer research and treatment and to meet others in similar circumstances.

Mr Browne was sent to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, for a blood test following a routine visit to his GP.

Tests confirmed that he was suffering from stage two bowel cancer, which had not spread.

After an operation, he made a full recovery and since then has urged people not to ignore or confuse any symptoms they may have.

"Look at any symptoms as the worse case scenario," he said. "If it's not cancer, you can deal with any other condition."

"Early diagnosis is the key. People should not ignore the warning signs. If you feel it's not normal, the best thing to do is raise it with your GP."

Bowel cancer kills about 16,000 people each year in the UK – and 93 per cent of those who are diagnosed at an early stage survive for at least five years.

Mr Browne, who is an amateur boxer, has taken part in fundraising abseiling and given talks about the disease.

Now he has set his sights on a fundraising bout with former WBA world heavyweight champion David Haye, trying to prove that people can recover from cancer and take on a champion.

Mark Flannagan, the chief executive of Beating Bowel Cancer, added: "Stephen's contribution to the charity is incredible and we wanted to say thank you to him for all his fantastic work."

Museum gears up again for mighty pageant of motoring

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of motoring enthusiasts are expected to pour into the borough over the bank holiday weekend for the Enfield Pageant of Motoring.

The annual show, which will be held at Enfield Playing Fields, in Great Cambridge Road, on May 24, 25 and 26, is in its 37th year and is widely acknowledged as one of the UK's biggest and best pageants, leading Top Gear presenter Richard Hammond to include the event in his 2014 year planner for petrolheads and motoring enthusiasts.

As with every year the pageant will feature a parade of classic cars, vintage motorbikes, a fun-fair with a wall of death, the Top Gear Experience, live music and hundreds of stalls.

Keith Oswick, a trustee of the Enfield District Veteran Vehicle Society, which has organised the pageant over the decades, said: "We are hoping to put on a great display.

"We will have lots of big classic American vehicles, such as Lincolns and Cadillacs in the American tent, which will be rock 'n' roll-themed. But the main attraction in the arena will be motorcycle stuntman Jamie Squibb."

This year's theme is the The War Years, marking 100 years since the start of World War I. The pageant will feature lots of memorabilia, including uniforms, military equipment and vintage Army motorcycles from both world wars.

Many of the vehicles on show can usually be viewed at the Whitewebbs Museum of Transport, in Whitewebbs Road, Enfield, which is run by the Enfield District Veteran Vehicle Trust, a registered charity.

For those who will not be able to make it to the

Getting ready: Malcolm Brown, far left, makes sure the engine on a vehicle is running smoothly and Keith Oswick, above, polishes the 102-year-old fire engine which will be on show at the pageant, along with 1936 Morris Commercial tow truck, below pageant, a trip to this hidden gem is highly recommended.

It is home to a range of stylish vintage cars, old fire engines and military vehicles, motorcycles old and new, push bikes, and toys dating back to the start of the last century – all collected under the roof of a late 19th-century pumping station.

The building was bought by the trust in 1986 in a near-derelict state. It originally housed two steam engines and boilers, which pumped water from the massive well underneath the building – it can still be viewed and the trust is planning to open it up to visitors over the next year – into the New River.

Since buying the building the trust's 25 volunteers have constructed four floors and its latest development has been the construction of a fire station and adjacent building displaying a variety of vehicles, including a stylish 1970s Ford Capri and a 1936 Morris Commercial tow truck.

The canopy that decorates the workshops where vintage vehicles are being brought back to life used to be at Enfield Chase railway station, in Windmill Hill, and is one of many of the borough's old relics that has gained a new lease of life at the museum. Whitewebbs is a beacon of Enfield history and some time spent with the trustees will make any visitor feel that they have a better understanding of the borough.

But the charity needs an injection of new blood. Malcolm Brown, who edits the trust's newsletter, said: "We could certainly do with some more volunteers." Mr Oswick added: "We are all getting on a bit and we need younger people to get involved. We'd like new faces to come in and bring with them some fresh ideas."

The museum is open every Tuesday between 10am and 4pm and on the last Sunday of every month. The pageant begins at 9am each day and closing times vary. Entry for adults is £10 and free for children under the age of 15 accompanied by an adult.

People interested in volunteering with the trust can call 020 8367 1898 or email whitewebbsmuseum@aol.com. The museum also has a website at www.whitewebbsmuseum.co.uk

Gardeners getting off the ground for annual contest

By Jack Wilkinson

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

GARDENERS across the borough have been invited to showcase their efforts as the annual Enfield in Bloom competition gets under way.

This year's contest will be split into 18 categories, including a new accolade for the "front garden also used for parking".

Front gardens, environmental gardens, school grounds, business premises and pubs are among the categories in which the borough's green spaces will be judged.

Dennis Lushey, chairman of Enfield in Bloom, has urged everyone to get involved.

He said: "If you enjoy gardening, then have a go. There really is nothing to lose. It's free too, it's a great chance for those who have pride in their gardens to get some recognition."

Mr Lushey, of Holmesdale, Waltham Cross, confirmed that this year's new category has come in response to the increase in the number of front gardens making way for cars.

"A lot of front gardens are being paved over and replaced by cars," he added.

"The new category aims to prove there is space for pots and shrubs despite there being a car on it."

The voluntary organisation's ethos aims to improve the environment in and around Enfield through the use of horticulture.

"For us, one of the most important things we can do to combat climate change is to emphasise the personal, social and environmental benefits of gardening," said Mr Lushey. "The competition is one of the very best ways in which we can do this."

The organisation also runs an annual adopt a flowerbed scheme and those involved include Tottenham Hotspur Football Club, whose training ground is in Bulls Cross, Enfield.

Proceeds from the competition and other events help volunteer gardeners with maintenance work throughout the year.

Competitors have until June 9 to submit their entries, with judging taking place from June 23 to July 4.

Entry forms are available at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield Town, Forty Hall, in Forty Hill, Enfield, Clockhouse Nursery, in Forty Hill, Enfield, and the borough's libraries.

For more information on how to enter, contact Mr Lushey on 01992 718 857.

AyJay's art drawn from coffee shops

By Jack Wilkinson

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A COFFEE shop-themed exhibition showcasing the works of artist AyJay Trashy is being held at the Dugdale Centre.

The A J Trashy Sugar Trashy show at the venue, in London Road, Enfield Town, will give visitors the chance to experience an exhibition like no other.

Speaking after the launch of his fourth exhibition, he said: "It went really well. Some people were blown away. I gave some tours and it was well received."

"I think the exhibition will entertain. It's a journey through my mind, so it's not your ordinary exhibition, it's something else."

AyJay, who can often be spotted frequenting coffee shops across the town, uses discarded sugar wrappers and tea bag labels as mini-canvas on which to paint.

Originally, he drew café scenes in a small sketch book using coffee in place of watercolour to add light and shade.

However, he found he was allergic to coffee and started to use acrylics to draw on to sugar packets, napkins and tea bag labels.

The exhibition, which features AyJay's

Out to entertain:
Artist AyJay Trashy

body of work from the past five years, includes a series of miniature paintings depicting his favourite cult icons, most notably paintings of Marilyn Monroe and Mickey Mouse.

His work has featured in the Raw Vision magazine. "I think the exhibition is as much about me as it is my work," he added. "It's a reflection of who I am and how I work. People who come to the exhibition will get a real insight into my work and into my thinking."

The exhibition is open daily from 9am to 6pm and runs until June 7. Entry is free. Visit www.dugdalecentre.co.uk for more information. A preview of AyJay's work can be found on his Twitter page, @ayjaytrashy

the UK's N°1 letting agent

National campaign calls for Landlords and Tenants in Enfield to be SAFE

Landlords and tenants in Enfield are being reminded of the importance of choosing letting agents who subscribe to Client Money Protection (CMP) schemes.

Now in its third year SAFEagent Awareness Week will take place from May 12 – 18 and will be supported by a raft of regional and national initiatives to drive awareness of the importance of choosing a letting agent that offers financial protection.

More than six letting agents in (Enfield) are signed up to the SAFEagent campaign, displaying easily identifiable logos at their premises.

If a letting agent subscribes to a CMP scheme this means that if it closes or an agent misappropriates client funds, landlords' and tenants' monies will be safeguarded.

MARTIN & CO is just one of the letting agents in Enfield signed up to the SAFEagent campaign, Yash, Principle of Martin & Co Enfield, said: "We're proud to be part of the SAFEagent campaign and protection of our clients money is paramount.

"There are still far too many stories in the media about rogue letting agents therefore campaigns such as SAFEagent Awareness Week are really important to highlight how landlords and tenants can protect their money."

John Midgley, chair of the SAFEagent steering group, said: "SAFEagent Awareness Week is the ideal opportunity to remind landlords and tenants of the importance of identifying agents who offer financial protection and the campaign has made giant strides in doing so since its launch in 2011.

"There are still far too many letting agents who do not belong to a recognised body or scheme and it's important to remind people to do everything they can to ensure their money is sufficiently protected.

"Letting agents who sign up to become a SAFEagent are also reassuring consumers that they subscribe to a defined code of practice and are members of recognised professional bodies or accreditation schemes."

There are now around 3,000 SAFEagent offices nationwide, demonstrating their commitment to protecting landlords' and tenants' finances through CMP schemes. SAFEagents are easily recognisable through the SAFEagent logo and mark which is clearly displayed and marketed by those agents in the scheme.

To find a SAFEagent in your area visit www.safeagents.co.uk.

Property tips

It is best to avoid swapping telephone numbers with your vendor/buyer. Leave your estate agent to iron out any issues, keeps both sides reassured and acts as the go-between. With a phone number at their disposal, the other party can air their anxieties or grievances directly at you, rather than going through the official channels.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968 and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
  - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
  - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
  - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
  - (i) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
  - (ii) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay, for the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

About us!

Umbrella is a Guardian company, we now have properties available to occupy in Ponders End. (Please note that this is not the same as renting, see our website; www.umbrellaguardians.com). We have a number of rooms in 1, 2 and 3 bedroom properties available to share.

Protect properties by living there!

We are looking for flexible, reliable, responsible working professionals who would like the adventurous way of living as a guardian and also save money at the same time! You will be occupying the property temporarily, ensuring the security, safety and tidiness of the property is not disturbed. We need guardians to move in as soon as possible.

More space to yourself for less money!

The properties are well maintained, with ample sized shared facilities, properties come fully furnished, part furnished and unfurnished.

The properties are generously sized and the high rise properties have excellent views across north and east London, including spectacular views of the William Girling and King George's reservoirs. The Olympic site in Stratford is also visible from some of the higher storeys in the high rise Tower Blocks. quick viewing is advised as we expect demand to be high. 30 seconds walk from Ponders End Station

All applicants must be employed or self-employed, no pets, no children, no students, no under 18s and must be available to move immediately. We will carry out a basic db's check, an interview is carried out and references are taken.

We expect the properties to be available for a minimum of six months with plenty of scope for further occupation.

Prices per month: £425 per month, council tax is included A security deposit of £400 will be required. Before you sign the licence agreement, there will be a one-off administration fee of £100, fire pack £40.00 and one month's licence fee in advance.

To arrange to view please contact mandy@umbrellaguardians.com, call on 020 8958 4576 or 07450 042152.

Civic does family duty

By Matt Kimberley

YOU can't stay in sports cars all your life – as much as you might like to. This is something I've discovered the hard way, but mainly because the kind of family car that ordinarily wouldn't appeal has suddenly become highly desirable.

The Honda Civic is a sharp-looking and thoroughly modern machine, but it's the hatchback that a stylish 20-something would want to buy, right? Estates are for people with dogs, children or antiques to haul about.

I'm certainly guilty on two out of three counts, but far more relevant is that modern estates aren't just vans with windows, which is why I'm happily taking the plunge with a Civic Tourer for the next six months.

It's certainly in the running for the best-looking estate on the market. It has curves and lines that you just don't expect from something with a big luggage area at the back.

Partly, this is to achieve great aerodynamics – but it is also very easy on the eye. It is only when you stop and give it a real going-over that you realise just how radical it is.

This is still a Honda, however, so sensible comes as standard. The Tourer offers up 624 litres of boot space with the seats up – and with the seats down and packed to the roof, this goes up to a mammoth 1,668 litres.

And that's not the whole story. There's a very sizeable under-floor area (117 litres to be precise) that should prove extremely useful – and because the Civic's fuel tank is under the front seats rather than the back, the seats fold almost perfectly flat in an instant.

Like the hatchback, the layout of the cabin is a little unusual with the digital display at the top and the analogue instruments below, and there's an information screen up the top while the infotainment system sits in the middle.

It all makes sense when you are sitting behind the wheel – and time and miles will prove whether it makes sense to live with.

There's plenty of storage, too, and a lot of connections for all sorts of devices which I don't own, but I'll be sure to ask the children what I need to buy.

Specification-wise, I am fortunate enough to have the EX-Plus version, which has the figurative kitchen sink included as standard.

Keyless entry and go is a nice luxury to have and the electrically adjustable lumbar and side supports should come in useful given the amount of time that will be spent in the hot seat.

In the engine room, the petrol option is a fine thing – but with an official combined figure of 72.4mpg is too tempting to resist. Only the bigger wheels on the higher-specification versions stop it sneaking under the 99g/km barrier.

My Tourer will have to deal with children, a dog, my other half's propensity to treat glove-boxes and door bins as an extension to her make-up bag and a lot of hacks up and down the motorway. I suspect long-term tests don't come any tougher than this.

Summed up in a word, this car is honed.

Facts at a glance

■ Model: Honda Civic Tourer 1.6-i DTEC EX Plus manual, £27,960 as tested

Engine: 1.6-litre diesel unit producing 119bhp and 221lb/ft of torque

Transmission: Six-speed manual gearbox driving the front wheels

Performance: Top speed 121mph, 0-62mph in 10.5 seconds

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reason the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertiser to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly and the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Publishers.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole deal in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement; should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements published wholly or partially by the Publishers belongs to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Trade Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

SHERWOOD SACKED BY RUTHLESS SPURS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

TIM SHERWOOD has been sacked as head coach of Tottenham Hotspur after less than five months in charge of the side.

Having previously worked with the youth set-up of the club, Sherwood was only appointed in December following the axing of Andre Villas-Boas and he led the club to a sixth-placed finish in the Premier League to seal a spot in the Europa League.

Sherwood's win percentage of 59 in the league is the highest of any manager of Tottenham during the Premier League era, but they never really threatened to mount a serious challenge for Champions League qualification and were too often found wanting against the leading sides.

There had been mounting speculation over Sherwood's future for some time, and chairman Daniel Levy confirmed his departure from the club yesterday.

"We appointed Tim mid-season as someone who knew both the players and the club," he said. "We agreed an 18-month contract with a break clause at the end of the season, and we have now exercised that option."

"Since appointing Tim as assistant first-team coach in 2008 and then as technical co-ordinator in 2010 and head of football development in 2012, we have been supportive of him during football management changes throughout that period."

"On behalf of the club, I should like to state our thanks for all his efforts during his years with us. We wish him great success in his managerial career."

"Moving forward, now the season is over, we shall embark on the process of finding a new head coach. We have a talented squad and exciting young players coming through. We need to build on this season, develop our potential and inspire the kind of performances that we associate with our great club."

Spurs ended their season on a high by easing to a

On his way out: Tim Sherwood has been sacked by Tottenham

3-0 victory at home to Aston Villa on Sunday and, speaking after the match, Sherwood insisted that he felt he had done a good job in the circumstances.

He said: "Myself, Chris Ramsey and Les Ferdinand stepped up from the development team to come into the position to take over the first team, and overall we're happy with what we've done. We're not sure if we could have done any more to be honest."

"It's been a great learning curve for me. I've tried to do the best I can and to prepare the team every week to win games. The one thing I have learned about football is that it's all about winning. If you win it covers up a multitude of sins."

"Where we've finished in sixth is where we should be, it's where we are as a club. We all want to aspire to the top four and the title, but we aren't getting there with what we've got."

"To remove a match winner like Gareth Bale out of that squad, we shouldn't have expected it after that."

Skolars unable to turn pressure into points

THE London Skolars were forced to rue their inability to make the most of long periods of territorial advantage and possession as they suffered a 24-16 defeat at Gateshead Thunder in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One on Sunday.

The hosts raced into an early lead as Sam Bowring and Matty Beharrell scored tries inside the first ten minutes, but the Skolars eventually weathered the storm and began to work their way back into the match.

However, despite their pressure, the visitors had to wait until two minutes before the interval to get on the scoreboard when Mike McMeeken forced his way through the defence to claim a try which Sam Druce converted to leave them just two points behind.

A hailstorm early in the second half made handling treacherous, and Gateshead took advantage of errors from the visitors to extend their lead through tries from Jason Payne and Beharrell.

Judd Greenhalgh gave the Skolars renewed hope by barging his way over the line to score his fifth try in six games, but it looked like they would end up with nothing to show for their efforts when Ricky Hough touched down with six minutes remaining.

The visitors refused to give up though, and they made sure of a losing bonus point late on when Mufaro Mvududu claimed an intercept try.

Sunday sees the Skolars begin life at their temporary home of the Queen Elizabeth Stadium in Donkey Lane, Enfield, when they entertain the Gloucestershire All Golds (3pm).

The Skolars are playing six matches at the ground while work is going on to improve the facilities at the New River Stadium in White Hart Lane, Wood Green.

Commercial manager Pat Cluskey said: "It's an exciting time for us and we're looking forward to welcoming the sports fans of Enfield and the surrounding areas to the QE Stadium and introducing them to the thrills and spills of professional rugby league."

Borough hope to secure silverware

HARINGEY BOROUGH will have been hoping to end their fine season on a high last night by claiming silverware when they took on Hullbridge Sports in the final of the Gordon Brasted Memorial Trophy.

A spectacular run of form since the start of March saw Borough claim runners-up spot in the Essex Senior League table, while they extended their unbeaten run to 23 matches by beating London APSA 4-2 at home on Tuesday last week to book their spot in the trophy final.

Playing their 25th game in 68 days, Borough showed clear signs of tiredness and there was little to choose between the sides in the opening stages.

However, it was the hosts who broke the deadlock from their first chance of note and Stephen Obeng raced clear on goal and calmly slotted past the advancing keeper.

Nick Nickou then fired against the post as Borough looked to extend their lead, with APSA unable to seriously test home keeper Austin Byfield prior to the interval.

But the visitors did manage to level the scores in the 62nd minute when Byfield misjudged a high ball and Fahad Nyanja managed to scramble it over the line.

Joe O'Cearuill restored Borough's advantage six minutes later with a speculative cross from the right which dropped into the net, but the visitors hit back and Jorge Sambu grabbed their second equaliser with a flying header on 76 minutes.

There was to be no denying Borough though as Richard Worrell struck moments later with a close-range header, before Lee Allen sealed their victory with an effort from distance which the keeper allowed to squirm from his grasp and drop over the line.
